Demon Wine (1989)

Written by: Thomas Babe

Directed by: David Schweizer

Thomas Babe's Demon Wine might as well be called "The forgotten play", cause for some reason it is hidden in the archives, so little is known about this performance. It was first presented by the Los Angeles Theater Center, February 1989. Tom Waits portrayed the character called "Curly".

TW: Actor, Curly

Tom Waits (1999):

"I'm very undisciplined. The schedule is the hardest thing for me. I'm not used to getting up, working [in rehearsals] for eight hours and then back home to go over the text and prepare the next days work. I have my own way of working on my own stuff. This schedule requires a discipline that's unknown to guy's like me." Then as if stringing together straight statements was too much to ask, he added, "It [the discipline] is a bone I do not have in my ribcage."
